Sign Of The Times...

In a move to commemorate Manor's 50th Anniversary with a lasting tribute, Manor has announced plans to build a new six foot sign at the College front entrance on Fox Chase Road.

The new sign will be made of granite and match the facades of the existing campus buildings. At night, it will be lit from within and reflect upward from the black base.

"Granite is one of the most durable stones and has an image of history, beauty and permanence," says Senior Associate Professor Marlyn Alkins, chair of Manor's new sign campaign. According to Alkins, the new sign will be eternal, nearly maintenance free and display the name of the College and its subdivisions. The text will be made from stainless steel letters adhered to the granite.

Alkins believes the new sign will improve the College both aesthetically and from a marketing standpoint, helping Manor reflect its position as "America's Premier Two-year Catholic College."

"First impressions are important in attracting students and maintaining an image," says Alkins. "The new sign will promote a sense of tradition, value and academic excellence that will serve as the cornerstone of an entire campus beautification project."

According to Frank DeMarchi, director of Development/Alumni Relations, over two-thirds of the new sign fund-raising goal has been met, thanks to contributions from faculty, staff and board members. The remaining funds are being sought through alumni and private donations. In recognition of their contributions, Manor is placing all donor names on a special commemorative plaque. The new sign is expected to make its debut this fall.

"Manor must always present itself in a way that matches its academic achievements," says Alkins. "A new college sign is our start."

"The new sign will promote a sense of tradition, value and academic excellence that will serve as the cornerstone of an entire campus beautification project."

If you wish to donate to the new sign, fill out and return the post card in this edition of Alumni News. You will receive a letter of confirmation and your name will be placed on the commemorative plaque. If you have any questions about Manor's new sign, please contact Frank DeMarchi, director of Development/Alumni Relations at 215/885-2360 ext. 214.

It's Official: MANOR IS REACCREDITED !

Last November, Manor was under the microscope, in a figurative sense.

Members of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools were on campus to study and analyze all facets of the College's operation, looking at how effectively we carry out our mission, in order to determine whether to recommend Manor for reaccreditation. During an intense three days, a six-member Middle States Evaluation Team interviewed Manor administration, faculty, staff, and students.

Manor's preparation for the accreditation evaluation began two years ago, with a year-long self-study, led by faculty member Jane Zegestowsky and a six-member Steering Committee. According to Zegestowky, the commitment of the College community was "instrumental" in showing that Manor continues to fulfill its mission.

In December, Middle States sent a consensus report to the Commission on Higher Education recommending that Manor's accreditation status be reaffirmed.This exerpt comes from a letter sent to President Sister Mary Cecilia, OSBM, from Team Chair Sister Edmunette Paczesny:

Dear Sister Cecilia,

Congratulations to you, the Board, the Steering Committee and all the members of the staff! You have indeed merited the reaffirmation of accreditation by Middle States. May God be with you as you continue to fulfill your mission in serving the students and your community.

Sr. Edmunette Paczesny
Team Chair, Middle States

Manor Logs on at www.manor.edu

In October, Manor joined colleges everywhere in making information available anytime, anywhere as its official web-site made its debut. Now, with just a few keystrokes, anyone with a PC can take a tour of Manor and learn everything about the College from its academic programs and campus activities, to continuing education offerings and financial aid information.

A quick tour of Manor is only a few keystrokes away complete with text, images and even sound.

"Our web-site is cutting edge, well maintained and updated, and has voice capability," said Frank DeMarchi, director of Development/Alumni Relations. "Our job is to provide information quickly and easily to students and alumni. The more they know about what Manor has to offer, the better off we all are."

DeMarchi is particularly excited about the alumni homepage. "We'll be offering a lot more information than other colleges - from the latest job openings and career reference materials to professional development seminars and links to alumni."

DeMarchi said the Internet has changed the way colleges operate, and will continue as a primary educational and communication tool. "This type of information delivery and education over the internet meets the needs of the homebound, senior citizens, people with disabilities, and people who travel frequently. The possibilities are endless," said DeMarchi.

Imagine - all this and more at your fingertips. Perhaps DeMarchi said it best: "If its happening around Manor, you'll find it at www.manor.edu."

10 Useful Features on the Alumni Homepage

1. Alumni Association Officers & Board of Directors - Provides an updated list of your current alumni officers and trustees.

2. Alumni Association Meeting Minutes - Get the latest news from the Association meetings. It's the next best thing to being there.

3. Career Services - A job could be just a "click" away on Manor's job bulletin board (updated weekly). Also provides helpful reference books and links to alumni.

4. Activity/Event List - Includes information on all campus events and trips. Not sure of the time or day of a certain trip or activity? Find out here.

5. Professional Development - Offers hundreds of credit and non-credit courses and seminars for alumni to grow professionally, spiritually and personally.

6. Find Alumni - Need help locating an old classmate, professor or friend? No problem! Now you'll be able to find them in a flash.

7. Volunteer Opportunities - There's always a need for Association directors and mentors, not to mention volunteers for the Spring Gala, Alumni Social, Ukrainian Festival, Easter Expo and Golf Outing.

8. Address Change Updates - Don't stop receiving your alumni information. Simply fill out the form found here when you move.

9. Athletic Schedule - Complete game schedules for the coming season are published in August.

10. Association By-Laws - Just in case you were wondering.

50th Anniversary

With this year's Commencement Exercises -- held May 14 -- we marked the culmination of our year-long celebration of Manor's 50th Anniversary. Beginning way back in September with our "Get Acquainted Picnic" and Divine Liturgy, the celebration continued with several other special events, including three installments of our Faculty Classic Film Festival, the first Alumni Social (see page 5) and a special exhibit in our Ukrainian Heritage Studies Center featuring the Sisters of Saint Basil in Education. It was a momentous year for the college and on this page we take a pictorial look back.

Manor goes Hollywood for first Alumni Social...

It was literally a trip down memory lane for alumni who attended Manor's first Alumni Social at the Hollywood Tavern last December 7.

One of the many special events scheduled this year to celebrate Manor's 50th Anniversary, the Alumni Social featured give-aways, door prizes, an open buffet, and of course, lots of reminiscences by Manor alumni. Yearbooks from each graduating class were on hand to add a little nostalgia to the event, which earned rave reviews from all in attendance.

"It was the perfect setting to catch up with some Manor friends and teachers," said Mary Lou Delizia '66, president of the Alumni Association Board.

If you weren't able to catch the first Social, don't despair. A second one is planned for Sunday, November 8, 1998 at the Hollywood Tavern in what will become an annual event for alumni. And who knows, maybe next time you'll be on these pages!

The Alumni Social was a great place for alumni to meet up with the teachers they had as students. Here, Michele Malloy (right), a former paralegal student, visits with Diane Pevar, director of Manor's Paralegal Studies Program.

When alumni are asked what they remember most about Manor, the typical response is "small classes," "personalized attenton" and "caring teachers."

For Alumni Social guests, Greg and Celia Markham, the answer is a little more personal -- and with good reason -- for it was at Manor that the happy couple found each other.

They met when Greg '93 (Early Childhood Education) returned to Manor to enroll in a course and met Celia '95 (Early Childhood Education), who was already enrolled. A four-year courtship ensued and the rest, as they say, is history. They married last June. At right is their wedding photo.

Alumni Association Starts Mentor Program

The Alumni Association and the Business Division have teamed up to create a Mentor Program for incoming 1998 freshman business majors. The program introduces incoming freshman business students to Manor alumni interested in providing a link between their work and education experience and the kinds of opportunities available to the student.

"The mentors we seek will basically serve as role models to help students get through their entire college experience," said Alumni Association President Marylou Delizia '66. "Our program is modeled after other college's programs that have had positive results. With this trial run, we hope to expand to other divisions in the College."

How it works:

At the beginning of the semester, Manor will hold a social activity for mentors and students to meet. After that, it's up to the mentor and student to continue their relationship with periodic meetings - which could include lunch, a phone call, birthday cards or whatever the mentor and student decide to do. The mentor time period lasts as long as the student is at Manor.

Manor is seeking alumni from the Business Division or those currently working in the business field anywhere in the Delaware Valley who are willing to volunteer as a mentor. In September, Business Division faculty will begin matching mentors with incoming freshmen.

Interested in being a mentor? Call the alumni hotline at 215/885-2360 ext. 214 or fill out the post card found in this edition of the Alumni News.

How to Become an Angel...

You don't have to be a saint to become a Manor Guardian Angel. All you have to do is care about the education of a student. It's that easy!

Here's how:

Scholarships Change Lives - Be Someone's Guardian Angel. This is the theme of Manor's endowed scholarship program. Each year, Manor offers over 200 scholarships to students. Although some scholarships are large and cover all tuition costs, most are much smaller and serve to defray a portion of the student's college expenses. In many cases, these "small" scholarships make the difference in a student's ability to attend college. That's where you come in.

As a member of the Guardian Angel Society, you can ensure that a student benefits from a Manor education by setting up your own scholarship.

All it takes to set up a G.A. Scholarship is a donation through appreciated stock, insurance policies or other forms of planned gifts such as trusts and annuities. You can also make a commitment in the form of a bequest in your will. And since these G.A. scholarships are endowed, that is, invested, the interest earned is also used for the scholarship. They can also be added to after they are established.

However process the gift is made, Manor recognizes each contribution's uniqueness and gratefully acknowledges each donor as a "Guardian Angel." As such, you'll be recognized at college events, awarded an angel pin and plaque, celebrated at a Guardian Angel liturgy, and invited to two Presidential receptions annually. As an additional bonus, you receive significant tax savings and deductions - not to mention the indescribable feeling of changing a life. It's simple - a G.A. Scholarship benefits both the student and the donor.

Beginning next semester, over 30 Manor students each year will benefit from the generosity of Manor Guardian Angels.

Be Someone's Guardian Angel. Call the Office of Development & Alumni Relations at 215/885-2360 ext. 214 to find out how you can become a Manor Guardian Angel. To a student - it's almost like being the real thing.

Three ways Manor can help you on your road to success

1 Training

Manor's Career Services office offers assistance in areas such as exploring the job market, mastering the interview, and resume and cover letter writing. Convenient evening appointments are available, also.

2 Resources

Area employers flood Manor's job placement office with job opportunities for two year graduates with associate degrees. A job bulletin board is updated weekly and contains opportunities in fields such as business, healthcare, and accounting. Manor's web-site also has the latest job listings at your finger tips.

3 Reputation

Manor's reputation in the business and health care community is second to none, and the early child care program is gaining the same popularity. Manor graduates are constantly receiving job offers throughout the Philadelphia area and beyond.

Give us a try. Call the Career Services office at 215/885-6299 and let us help you on your journey to success.

State Rep. Ellen Bard joins guests at DHC Open House

Manor Kicks-Off Breakfast for your Business Series

In February, Manor hosted the school's first Breakfast for Your Business program. The popular five-part series provides local business people with access to leaders in local politics, government agencies and public utilities. Guest speaker Richard Furlong (right), tax payer education specialist, served as the guest speaker at the first of four consecutive monthly meetings at the College. Other speakers included Ellen Bard and Congressman Jon Fox.

Faculty Feature: Frank Farrell Shares His Secret of Success...

Ask any current student or recent alumn about their favorite Manor teacher and a recurring name is mentioned -- that of one Frances A. "Frank" Farrell.

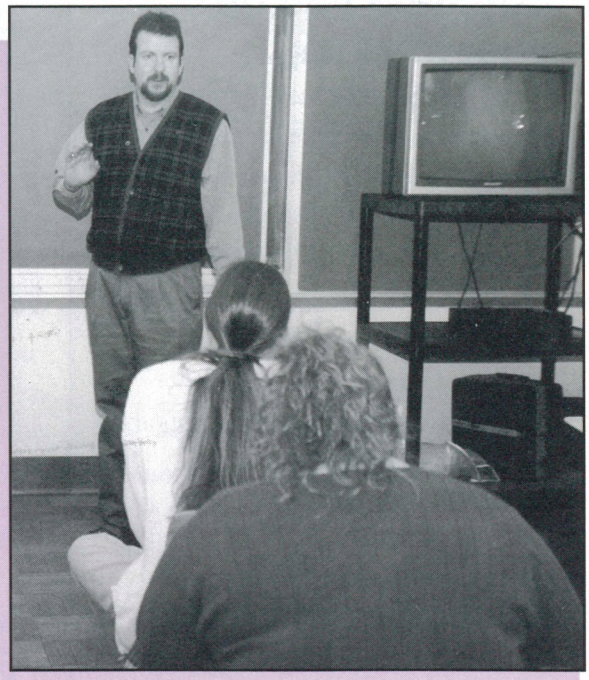
Manor's Religious Studies Coordinator credits his popularity to the word of a famous Aretha Franklin song: R-E-S-P-E-C-T. "If you sincerely respect students as individuals, they'll respect you back," says Farrell.

"I offer students the opportunity to journey together. We can both learn from each other."

Attend one of his classes and it's obvious that the camaraderie he shares with his students explains a lot of his success. Class discussion is sometimes serious, often humorous, but always thought provoking. (Perhaps a reason why it's common for many of his students to stay in their seats and continue discussion well after the class has ended.)

Farrell admits it wasn't always this way. His approach to teaching has changed from textbook driven to more of a dialogue with students.

"My children have taught me that there is more than one way of viewing things," says Farrell. "I offer students the opportunity to journey together. We can both learn from each other."



It's apparent that Farrell learns as much from his students as they do from his class.

Farrell's bond with students extends beyond the classroom. When he's not teaching, a typical day includes advising students and attending campus events. He's also a regular at athletic games.

"I really don't know what I'd do if I wasn't a teacher," says Farrell. "Mainly because I can't think of anything else I'd rather be doing."

Alumni Briefs

Alumni Profile:
Sue Ann Barber Southerland '87

Sue Ann (Barber) Southerland, EFDA '87, can't seem to get Manor out of her system. Now living in Morgan's Point, Texas, Southerland still loves to talk about her days as a Manor Dental Hygiene student.

"Manor led to immense personal and professional development that continues to this day," said Southerland, who along with her husband, Gary, operates a successful dental assistant training school. Southerland credits Manor for enabling her to become a competent and skilled professional "that always strives for my best."

On her trip back home last November, Southerland toured Manor's new dental facilities and came away impressed. "I'm sure the students appreciate the investment Manor has made in their education. I know I do," said Southerland. It was clear her visit back to campus only reinforced the feelings she already had toward her alma mater.

Before she left, Southerland made sure to make one more stop - the bookstore. "I'm very proud to be a Manor alumn. Now, I have several great sweatshirts to prove it!"

Lady Jays Conquer All!

Congratulations to the women's basketball team for winning Manor's first ever State Title in basketball. The Lady Jays capped a historic season by defeating Penn State-Altoona for the Pennsylvania Collegiate Athletic Association State Title on March 1.

First year coach Ralph Midora, led the Lady Jays to a phenomenal record of 21-1, in a stunning turnaround from the previous season when the team struggled to make the playoffs. Manor expects another fantastic season next year when all but two players return. Can you say REPEAT?

This edition of the Alumni News is dedicated to Sister Jerome Roman, OSBM, Manor's fourth president (1964-70), who passed away in January. Sister Jerome set a foundation for many of Manor's achievements. Her legacy at Manor includes restructuring the Board of Trustees to involve lay members, obtaining Manor's initial Middle States accreditation in 1967, and directing the construction of the Basileiad Library Building in 1968. An accomplished writer, she wrote numerous articles for the diocesan press and Ukrainian publications. In 1979, she was selected "Ukrainian Woman of the Year." Donations in her name may be sent to the Sisters of Saint Basil Basilian Spirituality Center., 700 Fox Chase Rd., Jenkintown, PA 19046.

What's in a Name?

We here at the Alumni News have been racking our brains to come up with a catchy new name for this publication. We've kicked some around and tried out a few and still aren't satisfied. So, we've decided to go directly to the source of our inspiration - to you our faithful readers. Simply fill out the "Name the News" section on the blue postcard in this edition along with your suggestion and drop it in the mailbox. If we choose your selection - you'll go down as an important figure in the history of MJC - and we'll send you a few nice gifts, too! Deadline for entries is August 1, 1998. So what are you waiting for? Get those creative juices flowing and help us name the News!
